

New Creation Generation International

The group started in 1980 when a handful of students on the Mona Campus of the University of the West Indies in Kingston, Jamaica responded to God's call to minister the good news of Jesus Christ to their fellow students.

After a decade and a half in ministry, the group disbanded. Several members migrated and attention was turned to family life and career pursuits. However, there was always a prevailing sense of "unfinished business" and a stirring for the team to reassemble. At a reunion in Jamaica in 2010 the group embraced this call to resume ministry, but on a global platform, due in no small part to the fact that members are now located worldwide.

In June 2011, NCGI made its first ministry appearances since its reunion, in Panama. Many were blessed especially during ministry that took place in a women's prison. NCGI ministry teams have also ministered in Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Virginia, and North Carolina in the United States as well as the U.K. In Summer 2012 the group reconvened in Jamaica, where it all began, for a series of engagements including Fun in the Son, as part of Jamaica's fiftieth anniversary celebrations.
